

Dealing with Children's School Needs

HELPING WITH HOMEWORK

Children often need help with their homework. They should keep a dictionary handy to look up troublesome words. Also, they should be encouraged to ask their parents for help if it is needed. Match the words in the "Word Pool" with the sentences to create true statements.

WORD POOL

homework

support

problem

table

quiet

every day

beneficial

helpful lesson

television

- Parents need to help children without doing their _____ for them.
- Most students have homework to do _____.
- Homework should be done in a _____ setting.
- It is _____ for children to discuss homework with their friends.
- Sitting at a desk or _____ is the best place to do homework.
- Some children are angry about homework. This is often a sign of a _____ in school.
- Parents need to _____ teachers. Coaching children to be serious about homework is one way of doing this.
- The _____ is one of the main things that interferes with homework.
- Telling a child about a homework error is OK. Explaining why an answer is wrong can be a _____.