

Putting Your Best Foot Forward

HAVING A POSITIVE ATTITUDE

Read the “Attitude Approaches” below. For each, draw an attitude face. For example, draw a face with a smile to show a positive attitude. Draw a face with a frown to show a negative attitude.

ATTITUDE APPROACHES
Donald is a delivery driver. His goal is to deliver 15 packages each day. Some customers want to talk to him for a long time. Since the company pays per delivery, not per hour, he is always in a hurry. To avoid long conversations, Donald works quickly and never stops moving. He often smiles, waves, and walks out while someone is talking to him.
Allison has a bad breath problem. She usually keeps a peppermint in her mouth to freshen her breath. A new rule was announced at work last week: No food or drinks in the work area. Since then, Allison has kept the peppermints in her pocket. She sneaks a mint when no one is looking at her.
Shanika does not like men telling her what to do. She works with a lot of men and they often get on her nerves. On Tuesday, Shanika was eating a turkey sandwich with mayonnaise for lunch. A male co-worker told her that turkey tastes better with mustard than it does with mayonnaise. She yelled at him, threw her sandwich in the trash, and stomped out of the lunch room.
Myra is a sales clerk at a clothing store. On Wednesday, a man asked her for a 50% discount on a coat. She told him that unauthorized discounts are not allowed. He continued to ask for the discount. Myra became upset and told him that customers like him made her sick. She told him to never return to the store again.
Ace works in a shop that sells motorcycles. He likes to be in charge and he rarely listens to other people’s opinions. A customer says that his dream is to own a white bike with white leather seats. Ace thinks the idea is bad because the road grime will ruin the seats. However, he tells the customer how to special order a white motorcycle.
